Candidates certified for special election

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Bay St. Louis Election Commission has certified the candidates for the Jan. 17 special election.

Candidates for District One, formerly called Ward One before the city council form of government was implemented, include Charles C. Scianna and Carol Ann Thomas. They will run to succeed Lisa Coward, who recently became Beat Three Supervisor.

The candidates for councilman at large are running to succeed Wilmer Seymour, who won the Beat Four supervisor's race in the county's recent special election. The potential councilmen include Sherlyn Breland, Peggy Lamb Dutton, Conrad L. Mauffray, James J. "Jimmy" Rutherford and Truman A. Schultz Sr.

According to Charles Gottschalk of the city election commission, absentee votes are now being accepted Monday thru Friday from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. at city hall. Those who are unable to come to the city hall to vote should call to have their absentee ballots mailed.

Pollworkers have been selected and include, with the return manager listed first in each district, Addison Bounds, Dorothy Heitkamp, Anna B. Ash and Marion Cook in District One; Carmella Boyd, Dorothy DiBenedetto, Hazel Breaux and Gene Monti in District Two; Edward Heitzmann, Alonzo Daniels, Franklin Cain and Louise Allen in District Three; and Bill Johnston, Shirley Lawless, Frances Compretta and Gwendolyn Isham in District Four.

Gottschalk added that Districts One and Two have new voting locations. Voters who used to go to the Garden Center should now report to Bay Senior High School and those who used to go to Bay Junior High should go to the City-County Library. The polling places for Districts Three and Four, the fire station and Christ Episcopal respectively, remain the same.

A run-off election has been scheduled for two weeks after the special election if needed.

HOUSE DONATION—State Representative J.P. Compretta of Bay St. Louis and Prima Wusnack, Hancock County Library System director, review the two-volume state budget for 1989/90, a copy of Mississippi's Fiscal Summary, and a list of short titles of bills introduced in the House of Representatives this session. Compretta has placed these documents at the main library on Highway 90 in Bay St. Louis for public inspection. "I urge the citizens in my district to participate in the legislative process by reviewing these items and they have questions. I will gladly provide them with a copy of the actual bill," said Compretta. Compretta can be reached during the legislative session by calling 467-6515 or, person-to-person at 359-3326. ON PATROL

DRUG BUST

The Hancock County Metropolitan Drug Task Force has made its first arrest, confiscating an unknown quantity of cocaine in the process.

Glen Strong, who represents the Hancock County Sheriff's Department on the task force and serves as the new organization's director, said Delbert "Cotton" Cuevas, 33, of Route One, Box 341, Piquette, was arrested at about 9:30 p.m. Friday, just six days after the task force began its official duties.

According to Strong, Cuevas was arrested at his residence on Dummyline Road after the execution of a search warrant issued by Justice Court Judge Lee Klein.

Items found and seized included two bags containing a presently undetermined quantity of cocaine, a scale, a small amount of marijuana, $3,087 in cash and a Chevrolet Corvette.

The arrest resulted from "an investigation that has been going on for some time now," said Strong, who added that the charges against Cuevas include sale of a controlled substance and possession of a controlled substance. Cuevas was released on $7500 bond.

Task force personnel assisting in the arrest included Greg Lichtenstein of the Hancock County Sheriff's Department and Greg Miller of Waveland Police Department. Strong and Mark Ohman of the Bay St. Louis Police Department were in charge of the investigation.

CAR CHASE

A Waveland man wanted in Florida on a parole violation was arrested Friday afternoon after attempting to flee from a police officer.

Officer David Sellier of the Bay St. Louis Police Department stated that Ricky Lewis, 35, of Waveland, was speeding when he first spotted him at about 1 p.m. on St. John Street.

Sellier stopped Lewis at the Shell service station at Main St. and US-90 a few minutes later, intending to give the man a speeding ticket.

The stop resulted in a chase down the 500 block of Main Street when Sellier learned that Lewis, on parole for a grand larceny charge, was wanted by authorities in Gainesville, Fla. In addition, a check of the vehicle Lewis was driving, a 1976 Buick, indicated the car had been stolen in Zephyrville, Fla.

Hancock County Sheriff's Deputy Dennis Tartavouille was driving on Main Street when he heard Sellier's radio message that Lewis had fled from him at the Shell station and that he was chasing him. Tartavouille attempted to use his patrol car as a roadblock but Lewis was able to maneuver the Buick around him.

Sellier finally succeeded in running the fleeing driver off the road and forced him out of the vehicle at gunpoint. Lewis is being held at the Hancock County Jail pending extradition to Florida on the parole violation.

Sellier charged him with speeding, failure to yield to blue lights and sirens, resisting arrest, driving on a license suspended for DUI and misdemeanor possession of marijuana.

Scott Carter, also of the Bay St. Louis Police Department, assisted Sellier on the initial stop.

LOCAL BRIEF

HEARING DELAYED

A Public Service Commission hearing on a proposed rate increase for Diamondhead Utilities has been postponed, Diamondhead Property Owners Association President Elmer Tapper said.

The hearing, which was supposed to have been set for some time in January, has been delayed while the commission decides whether to approve a proposed stock sale by the utility. Tapper said commission officials told him that the utility must first demonstrate that it is capable of providing the same or a better level of services if ownership changes.

Tapper had already filed a protest against the rate increase on behalf of the property owners association.

Commission to request acceptance of proposal on wastewater disposal

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Planning Commission has decided to ask the board of supervisors to accept a proposed ordinance for wastewater and sewerage disposal in the county.

John Scafide Jr., the commission attorney, stated that he plans to bring the matter before the supervisors at their Jan. 13 meeting, which begins at 9 a.m. in the upstairs boardroom of the Hancock County Courthouse.

Scafide said the ordinance, proposed to the commission Thursday by representatives of the State Board of Health, would effectively lift a moratorium against new construction that was placed on the county about three years ago.

The moratorium covered every part of the county without existing sewerage and without suitable soil conditions for a properly operating septic tank. That area included the unincorporated section of the county, with the possible exception of some areas north of Interstate 10, where soil conditions make septic tanks usable. It did not apply to the cities of Waveland and Bay St. Louis, nor several subdivisions where privately owned sewerage systems exist.

At that time, sanitation officials said that if such conditions were absent, health department permits could be given only for those structures equipped with an approved individual onsite wastewater disposal system.

Scafide explained that at the time the moratorium was imposed, Mississippi did not approve any of the available types of onsite units. However, the state now approves seven different types that range in cost from $1500 to $3000, depending on the individual soil conditions and size of each lot.

The attorney added that these units are "Not a great deal more costly than a properly installed septic tank and field drain, which range from about $1,000 to $1,500" and is "well worth the investment."

Scafide said he and the commission members feel that the proposed ordinance will be beneficial, particularly since it will help reduce a long-standing problem in some parts of the county with improper sewage disposal.

"It won't do anything about the current violations," he said, "But it will keep new ones from occurring."

Improper disposal of sewage has long caused the county officials to be concerned about contamination of drainage ditches, bayous and other waterways, private wells and other water supplies.

Scafide said the proposed ordinance may have to be modified slightly to tailor it more closely to Hancock County's needs but is acceptable.

It prohibits the use of any house, mobile home, business or other building where people live, work or congregate unless a permit is first obtained from the Hancock County Health Department with regard to sufficiency and availability of a proper sewage treatment and disposal system.

Without such a permit, other utilities such as electricity and gas could not be connected, according to the proposal.

The regulations of the State Department of Health regarding the individual onsite wastewater disposal systems will be used to determine who may obtain a permit.

If a permit is not granted, the Hancock County Tax Collector and Assessor's Office may withhold authorization for other utilities to be connected.

The proposed ordinance is not the only plan the county has for alleviating the wastewater disposal problem.

Hancock County Wastewater District No. 1, which includes parts of Beats Four and Five in the Highway 603 area, will govern the county's first publicly owned collection system. The district has already been set up and plans are being made for construction.

TRUCK SEARCH

Law enforcement agents were searching an 18-wheeler at the Hancock County Jail late Saturday in Bay St. Louis for possible illicit cargo. The vehicle contained a cargo of sweet potatoes and other items. The truck, which was stopped at the scales on Interstate-10, was being unloaded by inmates and officers at press time. Agencies involved included the Hancock County Sheriff's Department, Mississippi Highway Patrol, U.S. Customs, Drug Enforcement Agency and Mississippi Tax Commission. Officers were reportedly awaiting the arrival of a drug dog from New Orleans.

ON ETV

PAINTER GAUGIN

Painter Paul Gauguin felt that there was a 'savage Indian' within him. He released it by painting the life of his imagination.

'Paul Gauguin: The Savage Dream' airing at 10 p.m. Friday, Jan. 13, on Mississippi ETV, highlights the period of the artist's life when he traveled to Tahiti to capture on the canvas his unique vision of the Polynesian people.

Donald Sutherland is the voice of Gauguin as his own recollections and thoughts shed light on the details of his work. Examples of his work demonstrate his fascination with the myths and superstitions of the islanders and his captivation with the 'primitive spirit' of their native culture.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Preparations are underway for a memorial service for Mississippi Supreme Court Justice J. Ruble Griffin to be held in Bay St. Louis next Sunday.

Pam Metzler, Hancock County Circuit Court clerk, is among those making the preparations for a special service to be held Sunday, Jan. 15, at 3 p.m. at the First Baptist Church.

The recent death of Justice Griffin, (most of us in this area still referred to him as Judge Griffin), was a shock to many as we have lost a dear friend in Hancock County.

We will be giving you more information on the specifics of the service in Thursday's edition.

This is a time of year many of us could do without because it is property tax paying time; of course, our local governments would not be able to operate without revenues.

Edward Murtagh, Hancock County tax collector-assessor's office began collecting 1988 property taxes on Dec. 1 for the county and City of Bay St. Louis.

Historically, taxes were collected the month of January for the previous year, because in Mississippi we pay property taxes one year behind. Taxes become delinquent after Jan. 31.

With the majority of taxes being collected in only one month, it created long lines and hours of waiting in many instances.

The start of collecting taxes by the tax collector's office on Dec. 1 by Murtagh's staff really helps reduce the time it takes property owners to pay taxes.

I paid my property taxes a few days before the end of the year and it only took a few minutes.

I can well remember those long lines in January and while at the tax collector's office this week on a visit, I noticed the lines were nowhere near the length they used to be in January's past.

In some past years, governmental agencies had to make short-term loans in order to operate during January and repay whenever property taxes were paid.

Murtagh said during December his office collected $1,862,927. This is broken down to $1,224,871 for county land taxes, $563,254 Bay St. Louis property taxes and $159,435 for auto tags.

Collections for January have also been brisk. By the way, the tax collector's office is open until noon on Saturdays during January for the convenience of the citizens.

We would like to remind all property owners not to forget to pay their property taxes.

This is also the time of year for property owners to file for Mississippi Homestead Exemption renewals.

Murtagh's office mailed the applications out on Jan. 1, and he said there have been several to return because of address changes. Corrections on addresses have been made and if you haven't received yours in the mail within this week, you may want to call the assessor's office.

New homeowners have to apply at the assessor's office for Homestead Exemptions the first time, and then it has to be renewed each year.

By receiving Homestead Exemption, a property owner reduces the amount of taxes they pay depending on the property's value.

I have heard several complaints about the big proposed presidential commission's salary increase, which is in the 50% bracket.

It wasn't too long ago when federal legislators and others received a $12,000 annual increase in salary.

We have been hearing a lot about cutting the Federal Budget, and wonder how will it be done with the big proposed salary increases.

Theatre activities are getting underway for another season in the area.

The Waveland Players will get together at 6:30 p.m. at the Dock of the Bay on Wednesday, Jan. 11, to elect officers and discuss plans for the coming season.

On the following Wednesday, members of the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre, which has been floundering, will meet and elect officers and discuss a membership drive and reorganization.

These organizations have provided much entertainment for citizens over the years and we hope they are both successful again this season.

"I'LL JUST BRACE MYSELF WITH THE STEERING WHEEL"

YOU COULD LEARN A LOT FROM A DUMMY. BUCKLE YOUR SAFETY BELT.

SPECIAL AWARD—Waveland Alderman Bob Hubbard presents a Plaque of Appreciation to Dorothy Sutton for her many years of dedication to the city on Thursday. A special reception was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Dix Ashman in honor of Sutton, who has moved to Florida. Sutton devoted much time to Waveland's progress and was very active in many beautification projects. She also was involved with the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Beautification Committee for many years and was a Waveland representative on the Sand Beach Technical Advisory Committee. Diamondhead Property Board should be made accountable

To the Editor:

Resident-property owners of Diamondhead have not been told how much it will cost to defend a lawsuit filed by several property owners against the Diamondhead Property Owners Association and its board members. This suit, filed last year, is over a maintenance yard built in the middle of expensive homes and property which I feel devalues all the surrounding property by many thousands of dollars.

According to the law firm representing the Property Owners Association, the minimum cost will be $50,000 to defend the case. This cost would grow to an unbelievable rate should the P.O.A. lose.

To move the maintenance yard to a more appropriate site would cost no more, and possibly less, than the minimum to defend this case.

The building of this maintenance yard in an already established neighborhood goes against the original ordinances set up in the development of the Diamondhead community. It is ugly, dusty, muddy and extremely noisy, with heavy equipment, trucks, tractors and other vehicles.

There are no trees left on the site to buffer this noise and dirt from affecting those who have homes in the area. It will get more so as Diamondhead continues to grow. It also appears to be much too small to accommodate this future growth.

Why has the board of directors chosen not to tell the property owners of Diamondhead the facts and risk faced in continuing a lawsuit that could cost many thousands of dollars for settlement and then still have the cost of moving the yard? Is it ego or a matter of "saving face" that nothing has been said about the more appropriate property available to use for a maintenance yard that is not surrounded by already built homes?

The Board of Directors of the Diamondhead Property Owners Association was elected to represent property owners of Diamondhead, not to act as a dictatorship. It is time all facts concerning this suit be made known to those who will eventually pay the bill.

Hancock native remembers the turpentine reign

Dear Editor,

I recently returned to the Mississippi Gulf Coast after being away for half a century. But thanks to latex paint and iron ships, I have not come home again.

When I was a boy growing up in the Kiln, turpentine was king. It was used in the manufacturing of paints and varnishes, and its by-product, resin, was used for caulking wooden ships.

Turpentine stills, also known as naval stores because of their necessity to the shipping industry, lined the Jourdan River shores.

I have fond memories of my Aunt Virginia McLeod's turpentine still. It stood like a sentinel on a Jourdan River bluff at the foot of an old rickety single-lane wooden draw bridge. Rickety though it was, it supported many a mule-drawn wagon laden with barrels of pine tree sap on its way to the still to be converted to turpentine and resin.

I used to visit the old still a lot to pick up wooden chips glazed with resin which were used to kindle fires in fireplaces and wood burning stoves.

Although I am disappointed over not being able to come back home again, I am having the time of my life on the beautiful Mississippi Gulf Coast, reminiscing with old friends and relatives and sharing my memories with new friends and relatives who weren't even born when I reluctantly left this tropical paradise.

Sincerely,
Nicholas T. Haas Jr.

A caring community makes car wash success

Dear Editor:

One of the best things about living here is that people care about each other. We saw that community spirit in action recently when so many people turned out to help at the annual Doll and Toy Fund car wash.

Three things happened at the car wash: 100 cars got cleaner; the Doll and Toy Fund became $560 richer; and—most importantly—nearly a thousand kids in Hancock County were made happier by the presents provided through this organization.

Many elected officials turned out to help the cause; they deserve a warm thanks for hard work in cold weather. We were also fortunate to have the assistance of many young people. Several students from Bay High helped; the St. Stanislaus Key Club turned out in force; and the Junior Deputies from the Sheriff's Office provided the extra hands to keep the cleaning lines moving. We deeply appreciate the help of all of these people.

Finally, we would like to thank you—the people of this community. Your support has always been an inspiration and is a testimony to the true spirit of Christmas.

Sincerely yours,
Victor J. Frankiewicz, Jr.,

Charity hospital funding proposed to increase Medicaid

An issue of critical importance will soon go before the Mississippi Legislature. It is part of what may be the single largest funding increase for public health in Mississippi's history.

Unfortunately, this effort to provide the best possible health care for all Mississippians has become mired in controversy. Significant improvements are never easy to achieve, and they usually involve tough choices. That is true in this case.

Earlier this year, I proposed that funding for Mississippi's three charity hospitals be spent instead in the state's Medicaid program. I am recommending that the money—roughly $7 million a year—be reinvested in Medicaid. Medicaid is the front line of defense in our battle to provide decent health care for all.

By putting that $7 million a year into Medicaid, we will get an additional $28 million in federal matching funds to provide more and better health care to Mississippians.

There are many other logical reasons why we should do this.

First, there is a generally low and steadily declining use of inpatient services at the charity hospitals. Depending on whether licensed beds or staffed beds are counted, occupancy rates vary between 20 percent and 50 percent.

Secondly, there also is a steadily declining number of births taking place at the charity hospitals. At Kuhn Memorial Hospital in Vicksburg, for example, about 400 deliveries a year have taken place. But present data indicates that only about 160 births took place last fiscal year.

Third, the health care community throughout Mississippi has plenty of capacity to help those currently served by the charity hospitals. Hospital occupancy rates in communities that have charity hospitals very between 40 percent and 60 percent—a clear sign that private and county-supported facilities in those areas are underused.

Not only can the medical community handle the load, it has expressed a willingness to do so. Backing the proposal are the Mississippi Medical Association, which represents the vast majority of the state's doctors, and the Mississippi Hospital Association.

Moreover, doctors and facilities are available through local health departments and community health centers. In fact, patients using the charity hospital system, particularly pregnant women, may already receive part of their care from these facilities.

The controversy that has arisen over the charity hospitals clouds what I believe is the most compelling reason for the proposal—the need to establish a single standard of care for all people, regardless of their ability to pay.

Access and services need to be uniform throughout the state of Mississippi.

It is no accident that apparently only one other state in the nation has a charity hospital system.

Every elected official, every health care provider and every citizen knows that we can improve the delivery of medical care to Mississippians.

Now is the time to work together toward that goal.

From the Mississippi Economic Council

Following a 10-week period of investing in the stock market, many schools in Mississippi received favorable returns on capital invested by the school's students.

These schools participated in the Fall Stock Market Game, which introduces students to the American economy and the world of finance and investing.

The Stock Market Game is sponsored by the American Enterprise Center; the Securities Industries Association; Legg Mason Howard Weil, formerly McLarty & Company; and the Clarion-Ledger/Jackson Daily News. The game is coordinated by the American Enterprise Center, the economic education arm of the Mississippi Economic Council.

"The Stock Market Game is an easy and interesting way for students to learn the essential elements of investing in the stock market," said Peggy Howard, director of the American Enterprise Center.

Students are divided into teams of five players, with each team receiving an imaginary $100,000 to purchase stocks. Students may buy common stocks on either the New York, American Stock Exchange, or NASDAQ (over the counter) stocks.

Teams are divided into two divisions—junior division for upper elementary and junior high students and senior division for high school students.

The top three winners in the junior division are Bettye Mae Jack Middle School of Morton, West Elementary of Gulfport, and Jett Elementary of Vicksburg.

The senior division's three top winners are West Union Attendance Center of Myrtle, Cruger-Tchula Academy of Holmes County, and Pisgah High School in Rankin County.

Registration deadline for the spring competition of the Stock Market Game is Jan. 24. For additional information, contact Peggy Howard, American Enterprise Center, Box 23276, Jackson, MS 39225. She may be reached by phone at (601) 969-0022.

The mind can do some strange things when allowed to wander on its own. Some of the ideas that can occur to a person can be really weird.

That happened to me on my first day back at work after a week's vacation got stretched to 10 days by a holiday weekend. Well, what nonsmoker like me could be expected to concentrate when I return to find ashtrays on my desk and all my pencils gone?

Anyway, a little trick of the mind has spared the world from a "What I Did on My Vacation" column, which would have said something like, "First I travelled for a few days, then I stayed home for a few days." Yawn.

It's amazing what the mind will associate. I returned from a board of supervisors meeting at which Ronnie Cuevas gave what can be best termed as a "State of the County" address, only to find that my computer keyboard was buried under a section of newspaper full of Jeanne Dixon predictions. The two items merged like the lines on the highway after too many hours with a husband driving the car.

I don't consider myself a practiced psychic like Ms. Dixon, but I think I'll make a few predictions for Hancock County.

—Part of the Beach Road will be repaired, but hollow spaces will be found under other sections. Part of the road will actually fall in, but it won't be the large truck that causes it. It will be the small car that follows the large truck.

—Waveland Police Department will lead the state in the number of DUI tickets handed out.

—Everybody and his brother will run for the city offices in Bay St. Louis, including many candidates who have never before run for anything. The biggest problem for a candidate will be getting into the run-off, as usual. The mayor's race, expected to cause the most public interest, will be a clean campaign and therefore a dull one.

—Despite all the clean-up and public awareness projects being conducted by various groups, littering and illegal dumping will unfortunately continue in Hancock County, as will the stealing of road signs.

—The animal shelter will continue to be too small for all the strays in the county, but the people involved in the operation of the facility will be forced to start some real planning to solve the problem.

—Board of Supervisors President Ronnie Cuevas will be named to a state task force studying ways to make government board meetings more entertaining.

—That new county office building everybody keeps talking about will be built, but that thing will be full to capacity two days after its occupied and there still won't be enough room.

—Hancock County will be visited by Governor Ray Mabus, who will say that he is coming down to check out how the government reorganization program is working here. However, he won't stay very long unless the party at the Diamondhead Country Club is a real good one.

—The Port and Harbor Commission will continue its success in locating new industries here, but for some undetermined reason, unemployment will continue at about the same level.

—The most controversial political figure in the county this year will be Hancock County Superintendent of Education Terrell Randolph, because he has gotten his name into two issues that are perpetually controversial anywhere—construction of a new school and consolidation. He may not want to be controversial, but I have never seen even a discussion on either of those issues that didn't throw someone in Randolph's position into a controversy.

—The most expensive proposition in the county will continue to be wastewater disposal, but the expense will have worthwhile results.

—Waveland will become famous for having the shortest distance between two traffic lights, as one will be needed where all those people stop to turn at Walmart. Why, in a time when the economy is not real stable, do people still have such a fascination for shopping anyway?

Do these little items sound familiar? They'd ought to, because such things have been going on here since I moved to the Gulf Coast in 1984. As another journalist used to tell me, nothing new ever happens, only the names and faces change.

I don't mind that. As long as there's enough progress to keep up with the rest of the modern world and put us a little ahead of the rest, I like Hancock County just the way it is.

Dinamation dinosaurs on display through May 31

One of the eight dinosaurs at the Louisiana Nature and Science Center's Dinamation exhibit, the Parasaurolophus, is expecting a baby in the spring.

Volunteers and staff had noticed what appeared to be a nest-like structure in the setting for the Parasaurolophus. The first of four eggs was found in the nest on Dec. 30.

Felice Harlow, Dinamation project coordinator, said that the eggs will be on display during January, February and March. She expects that the hatching will appear sometime in late February or early March.

More than 12,000 people have already seen the new Dinamation exhibit. The exhibit is housed in four rooms, with hand-on and audiovisual interpretive material throughout.

Children of all ages can make the model of the non-dinosaur Dimetrodon move its tail and feet or open and close its mouth.

A paleontologist is on staff Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays to answer questions and give guided tours.

Dinosaur storytelling, enhanced natural settings, a full sized Tyrannosaurus Rex leg, several areas to dig for or look at specimens of fossils and well trained volunteers make the return of the dinosaurs a more educational and entertaining experience.

Dinamation is located at 412 N. Peters St. in the French Quarter. The exhibit can be found on the second floor of the same building as Hard Rock Cafe and Tower Record. The exhibit closes on May 31.

Tree planting time—Bought seedlings yet?

At last count we had something over 25 million pine seedlings still unsold in our nurseries. That sounds like a lot of baby trees, but I'm afraid some of our landowners are going to be disappointed if they don't get their order in on time.

We're particularly concerned because there's another sign-up period for the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) scheduled for Feb. 6-24, and this alone could take a big chunk out of the seedling supply still available for the current planting season.

I strongly advise you to get your application and money order on in. The possibility of losing a whole year of growth in your future pine stand can easily be avoided if you will go ahead and order your seedlings now. Call, or come by my office for a seedling order form. We are located at 725 Dunbar Ave., behind the old hospital.

Firelanes are good insurance. Are your trees covered?

There's also another item of need that we'd like to bring to your attention. The leaves have pretty much all fallen off the hardwoods, the grass is dormant, and it's not too late to clean those old fire lanes out or build new ones to give your timber (especially young pine plantations) some protection from wildfires.

This relatively inexpensive practice could become needed in a hurry this winter and early spring if the good periodic rain pattern that we've had so far this fire season doesn't hold up. It might be too late to request that we come do some firelanes for you if the weather suddenly turns bone dry. The demand for this service would jump in that case and we could be too busy fighting wildfires to handle many firelane jobs. The time to "buy your insurance" is before the "house" burns down.

If you can't prepare your own firebreaks, call us and we'll work out a time to handle it before a high fire danger period arrives.

The cost is $40 per hour, with a minimum charge of $20. An hour's worth of firelane work can protect a lot of little trees.

'Map Library' added to Hancock collection

The Hancock County Library System has added the H. W. Wilson Company's Map Library to its geographical reference collection, according to Prima Wusnack, library system director.

The Map Library, a collection of up-to-date road maps, is in three display units. The Basic Map Library contains a set of 30 state and regional maps for the United States.

The City Map Library includes maps of Atlanta, Washington, D.C., New York City/Long Island, Boston, San Francisco, Las Vegas, Miami and 30 other American municipalities.

The Canadian Map Library is a collection of 12 city and province maps.

These collections will complement other maps and geographical sources already owned by the library system, said Wusnack. For information on this and other services of the library, call the headquarters library at 467-5282.

Among her works are wildflowers and coast and country scenes in oils, watercolors and mixed media. Her wildflower watercolors possess a delicate, simple beauty. She considers them her specialty. "I've been painting forever. I sell enough paintings to support my habit," says the artist. She says she paints primarily for enjoyment. (Echo staff photo by D.C. Harvill)

Daniels said he has trouble finding leaves and flowers locally with the colors he likes to use. ASCS announces 1989 farm program signup periods

Franklin A. Gennin, county executive director of the Pearl River-Hancock County ASCS Office said that the signup period for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's 1989 wheat and feed-grain programs will begin Dec. 19 and end April 14.

The signup dates for the 1989 rice program will be announced later.

Gennin also announced that from Dec. 19 through Feb. 3, producers may declare their intentions to plant from 10 to 25 percent of each program crop's permitted acreage to soybeans or sunflowers and still protect that program crop's acreage base history.

Planting intentions under this special signup will be reviewed to ensure that the price for 1989/1990-crop soybeans is expected to remain above 115 percent ($5.49 per bushel) of the prior year's loan rate ($4.77). Any limitations or prohibitions concerning this planting option will be announced in February. No program benefits other than soybean price support loans will be made available to producers with respect to this acreage.

In addition, any portion of a farm's acreage base (FAB), minus the soybean base included in the FAB, may be exchanged for oats for the 1989 crop year. Any acreage exchanged in 1989 will be considered planted to the original program crop for determining the FAB or crop acreage base in future years, but will not result in an increase in the program bases. Program benefits for such planted acreage will be those normally applicable to oats.

During the farm program signup, wheat and feed grain producers may request 40 percent of their estimated deficiency payments. These payments will be all in cash. Advance payments will be limited to the producer's intended program acreage. The estimated payment rates will be announced before signup starts.

For wheat and feed grains, producers may elect to participate in an optional acreage diversion program—known as 0/92—under which they devote all or a portion of the wheat or feed grain permitted acreage to conserving uses (CU) and receive deficiency payments on an acreage not to exceed 92 percent of the crop's permitted acreage. The deficiency payment rate on the CU acreage will not be less than the estimated deficiency payment to be announced before signup.

Neither has visited the South before. LDS missionaries volunteer for 18 months and must pay their own room and board, they said. Reflections

Prayer: our lifeline

By Father Jerome LeDoux

"Father, will you give a one-hour talk on prayer to our next class of those to be confirmed? Use Scripture as a base, and give a prayer experience during your presentation."

The nun who made this request sent me scurrying back within myself to peek again at my inner soul and to re-examine once more from scratch what prayer means to me in my whole context of life. For sure, I cannot tell anyone anything about prayer unless I am first totally sold on it myself for my personal life.

Prayer, of course, is communication with God—any form of communication which is not blasphemous. In his prayers, we read how the Royal Psalmist rambles through every conceivable form of prayer: now giving thanks to God, now praising God, now telling God about the pain of his guilt and about his resolve to reform.

With great feeling, the Psalmist calls on God to help him in his dire needs and conditions. Suddenly, and rather frequently, he chides God for taking so long to come to his aid. After fussing at God, he always makes up with an act of faith and trust.

We are little different, if at all, from the Psalmist in our prayer needs and expressions. We can and should use all those expressions of prayer according to our momentary situations.

However, we must beware lest we sell ourselves short in assessing the extent, the content and the manners of expression of our daily, hourly communication with God.

Oftentimes, perhaps most of the time, we demand canned formulas and too many formalities of ourselves in our attempts at communicating with God. Since God is our Maker, Creator, Parent, our form of communication should be as uncomplicated as to a parent.

Somehow, there needs to be something very supernatural and, at the same time, something very natural about the manner, method and circumstances of our communicating with God.

Concretely, this means that whatever we do should be some form of prayer. To make each word and action a prayer requires nothing more than a conscious reference to God of whatever we are saying or doing. This awareness puts us in communication with God.

Beginning at the top, our pique with God, for whatever fancied reason we may have it, is itself a form of prayer, though clearly not the most selfless or expressive of faith and trust.

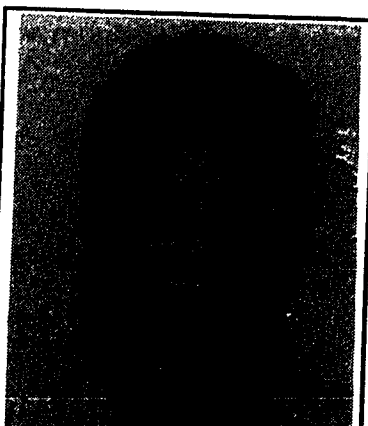

Gratitude should be the easiest form of prayer as well as the most basic and, along with praise, the most powerful. Being thankful for your mother and father, for your siblings, for your spouse, for your relatives and for your friends is a prayer. Sitting, standing or walking with rapt attention, in quiet or noisily verbal admiration of a loved one is a strong prayer. All the more, to hold hands, to kiss or to embrace someone dear is again a powerful prayer when you are aware that it comes from God.

Being appreciative of the daily food on your table, of the comfort and shelter of your home, of the landscaping of your own plot of ground, the clothes on your back, of your job, is a prayer, or, more specifically, a constant state of thanksgiving.

It is a prayer each time you experience appreciation for a soaking, hot shower or bath, each time you snuggle under the soothing warmth of a blanket, each time you wander outside and enjoy the drenching, life-giving heat of the sun.

With God in our awareness, every contact with nature, each brush with a fellow human, every hello and good-bye, each bit of sensitivity and attention, is indeed ready, steady, powerful prayer.

Free literature on wood heating offered by MDET

There will be many opportunities to enjoy the warmth of fireplaces and wood stoves in 1989. Using wood heat as a secondary heating source can reduce fuel bills considerably, but some heating systems are more efficient than others.

Fireplaces are not the most efficient wood heating systems because the heat from an open fireplace escapes through the chimney.

A radiant wood heater produces a considerable amount of heat, but colors, primarily white, can have a high heat transfer depending on the pigment and surface texture.

A circulating heater is considered safer for households with small children because the hot stove surfaces are covered by an outer jacket.

Before you buy a wood heating appliance, make absolutely sure that you want one. In some cases, it is better to invest in a little caulk and weatherstripping instead. Purchasing a stove to suit your needs will determine whether you view wood heat as a joy or a pain.

The Mississippi Department of Energy and Transportation has free publications that can help you determine the advantages or disadvantages of using wood heat.

For your free copy of 'Wood

Heat: Efficiency and Safety,' 'Burning Wood,' and 'Wood as a House Fuel,' call Energy Answerline 1-800-222-8311, or write the Technical Assistance for Residential Program, Mississippi Department of Energy & Transportation, 510 George Street, Jackson, MS 39202-3096.

Nominations accepted for justice seat

The Judicial Nominating Committee has announced that it is accepting applications to fill the vacancy of the office of Supreme Court Justice, District Two. The vacancy was created by the death of Justice J. Ruble Griffin.

Under Mississippi law, Supreme Court judges must have been practicing lawyers for five years, must have been citizens of Mississippi for five years, must be at least 30 years old, and must be from the district.

District Two of the Supreme Court includes the following counties: Adams, Amite, Clarke, Covington, Forrest, Franklin, George, Greene, Hancock, Harrison, Jackson, Jasper, Jefferson Davis, Jones, Lamar, Lawrence, Lincoln, Marion, Pearl River, Perry, Pike, Simpson, Smith, Stone, Walthall, Wayne and Wilkinson.

Nominations should be submitted as soon as possible to Thomas C. Perrone, Secretary, Judicial Nominating Committee, Office of the Governor, P.O. Box 139, Jackson, MS 39205.

RELIGION

Wm. Carey Chorale, Carillon to perform at First Baptist

A worship service of unusual nature will be presented at the First Baptist Bay St. Louis Church on Jan. 30 at 7 p.m. The Carey College Chorale and the Carey Carillon (the Handbell Ensemble) from William Carey College, Hattiesburg, will lead the service with musical interpretations of prayers, poetry, scripture readings, hymns and anthems.

Of interest to sacred music lovers will be the presentation of portions of Randall Thompson's Sequence of Sacred Choruses entitled 'The Peaceable Kingdom.'

Other works presented in the service include J. S. Bach's 'Now Let Every Tongue Adore Thee,' Benjamin Britten's 'Jubilate Deo,' Johannes Brahms' 'How Lovely Is Thy Dwelling Place' and 'Festival Te Deum' and Clarence Dickinson's 'Great and Glorious Is the

Name of the Lord,' and Jane Marshall's 'My Eternal King.'

Other selections in the service will include 'My Faith Looks Up to Thee,' by P. A. Schaeffer; 'Songs of Praises,' by John Hughes; 'Victory in Jesus,' arranged by Ron Huff; and 'The Lord's Prayer,' by Chuck Endsley. The spirituals 'The Morning Trumpet' and 'Deep River' are also included in the repertoire.

The chorale is directed by Dr. Gene Winters, dean of the Winters School of Music at the college, and the carillon is conducted by Mrs. Jennie Lou Breland, assistant professor of music at the school.

The accompanist for the chorale is Lori Ellen Rhoden, and the choral assistant is Josephine D'Arpa, both faculty members at the college.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

Help sought for victim of ulcerative colitis

TAMMY LEWIS

An account has been opened to assist the family of Tammy Lewis, who is suffering from ulcerative colitis, a disease which caused the removal of her colon and rectum.

Lewis, 22, has undergone three operations since September 12, having been hospitalized in Hattiesburg, Picayune and Gulfport. She is currently a patient in Memorial Hospital in Gulfport.

The Bay St. Louis resident may face another surgery in the near future, according to her mother, Julia Lee. Lewis has lost more than 60 pounds since her diagnosis in 1985 and is "extremely weak" but is not giving up hope to be released from the hospital.

She had planned to enroll in Pearl River Community College to pursue a nursing degree prior to her hospitalization.

Lewis has no insurance and her mother has tried since 1985, to no avail, to have her classified as disabled to obtain Social Security benefits. The case is currently being appealed.

The family, who resides in Shoreline Park, spent the holidays in the hospital, where they have "lived" for the past few months. Reuben Lee is employed in Pearl River and Lewis' sister, Debi Mayard, is a student at Bay High School.

Persons wishing to assist with Lewis' medical expenses may do so at any Hancock Bank branch, where account number 03-7051042 has been established for that purpose.

WALTER WIESMAN of Huntsville, Ala., discusses community initiative during a workshop on community development at the Mississippi Power conference room. Barbershoppers sing to help children speak

BY DENA BISNETTE

When a barbershop quartet sings on the Mississippi Gulf Coast, it is usually raising money for children with speech defects.

"We sing that they may speak" is the motto of the Mis-nobody in Hancock County was singing in the unique four-part harmony known as the barbershop style.

Gardner, now retired, moved to Mississippi in 1968. Back in Maryland, where he had previously lived, he had been active

St. Pierre, a baritone, said he and Gardner organized the Bay Four and After in about 1970 with bass Phil Williams of Waveland and tenor Bill Argus, who sang with them until about 1975 when he moved from Waveland back to New Orleans,

"We sing any music we can get our hands on and we have about 40 or 45 songs we can do well now without a lot of rehearsing, but the old barbershop songs are still the best ones. Some of them have great lines, like the one called 'If You Can't Say Something Nice about the Girl, Say Nothing at All."

"There's also 'Everybody Wants to Get to Heaven.' The punchline's at the end; it goes, 'but nobody wants to die.'"

"It's more fun that you've ever had."

He added that he has talked to some barbershoppers who have visited the Logopedics hospital in Wichita and they have told him about some of the results of the work being done there.

"What really reached him was when a group of children who couldn't talk got up and did a barbershop-style song for visitors."

Anyone interested in barbershop singing may obtain more information at the program Thursday night or from Gardner at 467-9876.

"It's the most fun you've ever had."

HEARTS AND HANDS

HELPING OTHERS

Mississippi Seachords Chorus, a barbershop singers' organization that includes a local group, the Bay Four and After.

The money from most of their shows goes to Logopedics, a charity that operates a special hospital in Wichita, Kan., for children with severe speech defects.

However, an admission-free open house has been set for 7:30 p.m. Thursday night at the Pepsi-Cola Building, 13300 Dedeaux Road, Gulfport. Anyone who is interested in joining the chorus or just likes to listen is invited.

The Seachord Chorus has members scattered along the coast from Waveland to Pascagoula, with some coming from as far away as Wiggins to harmonize at once-a-week practice sessions.

The chorus is part of a larger organization, Society for Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Singing in America, which was established back in the 1930s and has to date contributed about $7 million to logopedics.

The society, in turn, is part of an international barbershoppers' organization that has about 35,000 members in the U.S., Canada, Germany and the Scandinavian countries.

Bunk Gardner and Brother Pierre St. Pierre, however, remember when practically in barbershop music.

"When I would see a big van or a bus that had 'quartet' on the side, I'd get all excited and run over to it, but they were always gospel groups. It was all gospel and country down here," Gardner explained.

The break that got him back into barbershop singing occurred when the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre selected "The Music Man" as one of its productions the following year. In the play, the title character covers up the fact that he is a very non-musical con artist by spontaneously organizing four public officials into a barbershop quartet.

Gardner, who sings lead, had rounded up a baritone, bass and tenor for the quartet and had started teaching them to sing in the barbershop style when the director talked him into taking the leading man's part.

"There I was, having to learn all my songs and coach the quartet too. I had a wonderful time but I was one busy barbershopper," he said.

"That's the way it usually happens," St. Pierre said. "I dropped in to see somebody at a rehearsal for 'Guys and Dolls' and they were a man short in the chorus, so they told me to stand there and hold a hat and sing along. The next thing I knew I was playing a character with a solo."

La. Their current tenor is Jim Montgomery of Gulfport.

They still get together with Argus from time to time and are going to sing at his son's wedding soon, their first performance at such an event.

Locally, they have appeared everywhere from intermissions in little theatre productions to nursing homes in addition to productions by the Mississippi Seachords.

"We sing together because we enjoy ourselves," said St. Pierre, who works at St. Stanislaus and recently organized a group of students into a barbershop chorus in order to expose some of the younger generation to his favorite hobby.

"It really is the perfect hobby," Gardner added. "For college graduates who are familiar with music, it offers more of a challenge than choir membership. Most church choirs are like the one over at the Episcopal church where I'm the only male in the choir."

Gardner explained that although there is some expense for society dues and uniforms, it is not an expensive activity.

"It's a most enjoyable way to relax, and it has camaraderie. It's something you can do throughout your life and share with others," St. Pierre stated.

Gardner said he likes the humor he finds in barbershop songs.

BROTHER PIERRE ST. PIERRE, right, directs the Mississippi Seachord Chorus in a 1984 performance. St. Pierre is currently trying to encourage barbershop singing by working with a similar chorus he has organized at St. Stanislaus. "The boys love it, but you can't keep singers long because they grow up and graduate. I've heard from some of them, though, who have continued to sing and have joined or organized quartets of their own," St. Pierre said.

Plant societies offer information exchange

Are you a joiner? How many clubs, civic organizations and groups count you as a member? I feel sure that if the annual dues didn't add up to an impossible figure, and if we had more free time we'd all join more groups. People like to be with other people who like the same things they do, gardeners and plant lovers included.

At the local level there are garden clubs with mostly women members. These club members have an interest in gardening and a cause, such as historical garden preservation or restoration or, perhaps as here in Mississippi wildflowers and their preservation and establishment along state highways.

I am a member of the American Society for Horticultural Science, which is the national organization for horticulture teachers, researchers and extension professionals. There are also several other professional organizations that count me as a member. A lot of other organizations related to my hobbies, including gardening and plants, appeal to me, but time constraints keep me from joining.

It's amazing how many plant societies there are for gardeners and plant lovers. These organizations bring together people with a common interest and also provide for the exchange of information and often times the exchange of plants among the members. Many of these plants may be rare or not available in the commercial trade. Some of the organizations publish a newsletter for their members, and in most cases the annual membership dues are below $25.

The December 1988 issue of Flower and Garden magazine, available in magazine racks and possibly at your local public library, contains an extensive list of plant organizations with addresses and annual dues. Plant organization names seem to be either the American (plant name) Society, the International (plant name) Society or the (plant name) Society. If you have an interest, no matter how intense, in some particular type of plant there may be an organization for you.

Please remember the secretaries of many of these national organizations are private citizens, elected to office, who run the organizations out of their homes. Therefore, when corresponding to find out more information about a particular organization and its activities, include a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

For lovers of indoor plants here are a few organizations that may interest you.

PRC slates spring registration Jan. 9

People with their last name beginning with W,X,Y,Z have a very good chance of being seated last, called last and registered last.

That's not the case for sophomore students wanting to sign up for the spring semester at Pearl River Community College.

The Williams, Yarbroughs, Zellers, Zolls, Xaviers and all others toward the end of the alphabet will be the first to register at 10:30 a.m., Monday, Jan. 9.

In fact, sophomores will be permitted to register according to a last name schedule that Monday and on Tuesday morning, Jan. 10.

The freshman, transfer and former students will begin spring registration at 10:30 a.m. on Jan. 10. That is, if their names are also in the W, X, Y, Z file.

Freshman students will continue to register through Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 11, according to a published schedule. The A and B students, not by grade but by name, will have to fight the scheduling last on Wednesday.

Late registration and regular classes will begin Thursday morning, Jan. 12. Students may change their schedules through Wednesday, Jan. 18.

For more information contact the Director of Admissions at 795-6801.

HARMON TURAN
Owner

Gerry Lane and Harmon Turan are pleased to announce that they have purchased the Schuffert Pontiac, Buick & G.M.C. Truck Dealership in Bay St. Louis.

We would like to take this opportunity to thank Mr. Frank Schuffert for giving us the opportunity to make this purchase enabling us to add these fine General Motors Cars and Trucks to our Chevrolet & Oldsmobile lines.

We will be the only Dealership on the entire Gulf Coast to carry FIVE General Motors lines. We also feel that it will be a tremendous asset to the people of Hancock County and surrounding areas.

We are striving to have a Service and Body Shop second to none and the largest Parts Department in Hancock County.

We would like to extend an invitation to all of Mr. Schuffert's Customers to drop by and visit with us. We Pledge that we will strive to give you the fine Service you are entitled to.

CLUBS, AUXILIARIES

Diamondhead Art Association

Southern Poetry Association members will be honored at the regular Monday, Feb. 6 meeting of the Diamondhead Art Association, Community Center, at 1 p.m.

Poets from the entire Gulf Coast region, from Pascagoula to Waveland, are expected. Current contests will be announced and recent winners will be congratulated.

Poetry reading will have the spotlight. Those interested may join the Southern Poetry Association by attending this meeting and paying the $3 membership dues, or by mailing a check with a stamped, self-addressed envelope to S.P.A., P.O. Box 524, Pass Christian, MS 39571. This local group is also affiliated with both the state and national poetry associations.

The January meeting, although small in number, was an interesting and informative lecture on "Color Theory," given by Nel Ducomb. The many mixing techniques Nel shared will be tried during our "paint-in" at the March 6 meeting. Anyone interested in painting with us can bring a brown bag lunch and their own art supplies to the Community Center's gazebo garden at 10 a.m. Weather permitting, we will paint outdoors.

Charlotte Reshew shared a watercolor by M. Kibler. The watercolor was used by Nel Ducomb to demonstrate the different effects obtained by various brushing and mixing methods.

Coella Longanecker's contribution for the January meeting was to show her handmade paper "game" baskets. Although influence comes from native American Indian game baskets, Coella's are totally contemporary. Coated with rabbit's foot glue, painted, printed, stamped, wrapped and feathered, the molded paper takes on an antiqued look. The game pieces are of painted drift wood, turkey neck bones and ceramic balls.

Bobbie Quimby joined the association on Monday. Other members attending were Dorothy Booth, Evelyn Kibler and Dr. John Booth, who finally has time to paint since cutting his dental practice to two days a week. Tommy Thompson continues to improve at home. Members miss seeing the progress on his latest scale model ship.

Mark these dates on your calendar: Monday, Feb. 6, 1 p.m., Southern Poetry Association, and Monday, March 6, 10 a.m. until 3 p.m., "Paint-in."

All regular meetings are held in Diamondhead's Community Center.

Local artists and crafts persons are invited to join us. Submitted by Coella Longanecker.

American Legion Auxiliary
Unit 139

The regular monthly sing-a-long sponsored by the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Auxiliary, Unit 139, was held on Thursday, Dec. 8 at the Hotel Reed Nursing and Retirement Home. Mrs. Lena Mae Oustalet played the piano while Mrs. Oris Planchard went among the residents to encourage them to participate in the activity.

Mrs. Roslyn Weathers, was unable to be there because of surgery, sent her best regards to all of the residents and thanked the ladies for carrying on this activity as it means so much to the residents.

On Sunday, Dec. 18, Mmes. Lena Mae Oustalet and Oris Planchard were invited to participate in the Christmas festivities at the Hotel Reed Nursing and Retirement Home. Relatives and friends visited the residents while they entertained with Christmas music, and Beth Gruzinskas, director of activity, had the dining room area beautifully decorated with Christmas wreaths and poinsettias.

On Thursday, Dec. 29, Mmes. Mildred Means and Oris Planchard brought the birthday presents to the Hotel Reed Nursing and Retirement Home. Many residents were happy to hear that Mrs. Roslyn Weathers was recuperating and would be back by the end of February. Refreshments were served and a good time was had by all.

Recreation Association

The Hancock County Recreation Association will hold its first 1989 board meeting 7 p.m. January 12 at The Meeting Place located in Ruth's Bakery, Court Street, Bay St. Louis.

All members of the association and the public are invited. Nominations and election of officers are scheduled and discussion of spring fundraising projects are scheduled for the meeting.

Registration for the association's Men's Basketball League is scheduled from January 5 to 18 at Valena C. Jones Gym on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings from 7 to 10 p.m. A sign-up sheet is posted in the lobby. Team and individual trophies, t-shirts, etc. will be awarded and the regular season league play will be topped off by a tournament featuring additional prizes for top teams and individual players.

Open gym, co-ed volleyball is going strong on Tuesday and Thursday evenings starting at 7 and open-gym basketball is in full swing on Wednesday nights also starting at 7. All area residents are invited to come and join in the fun.

Family members must know they are loved

By Norine Barnes
Child and Family
Development Specialist

The main purpose of families is to create strong, healthy individuals who can deal with others respectfully and confidently while moving through life with a sense of hope, joy and well-being. To fulfill this purpose, families need to express their love, promote self-respect and build on family strengths.

Being loved is not the same as feeling loved. It is not enough for individuals to know they love the members of their family. They have to be sure their family knows it too. They have to demonstrate that they love them just the way they are, just because they are. Loving family members is largely a matter of getting the message across.

Affirmation is one of the most effective ways to say "I love you." When we affirm someone, we are saying "I believe in you and I think what you say and do is important." We affirm family members by listening attentively when they talk, showing interest in their activities and achievements, responding with patience and understanding when things go wrong, and telling them that they are special and appreciated.

Feelings of self-respect are important in what happens inside people as well as between people. The way we value others is based on the way we value ourselves. If we feel good about ourselves, we find it easier to feel good about others. In the reverse, being accepted by others helps develop our own self-esteem and helps us feel worthy, loved and appreciated. There is no place where being accepted and appreciated is more important than in a family.

Some families tend to concentrate on all the things that are wrong with their family life. But every family has more strengths than it realizes. These strengths lie in the family unit itself and in the contribution of each individual member. Families need to identify their strengths, both individually and collectively, and use these positive points to carry out their purpose of producing strong, healthy and confident individuals.

EARLY MAMMOGRAPHY AND BREAST SELF EXAM BENEFITS

Monday, January 9/NOON

Early detection is the KEY to success in the battle against breast cancer. Mammograms can detect tumors up to three years before they can be found by a physical exam. Along with mammography, breast self examination (BSE) is of vital importance. Early detection gives you a choice between major surgery (mastectomy) or minor surgery (lumpectomy). Free information on the mammography procedure and classes on BSE, taught by a trained nurse, are offered in this session. The Breast Diagnostic Center at SMH offers routine baseline mammograms for $59 (includes Radiologist's Professional Fee). THIS EDUCATION IS A MUST FOR WOMEN OF ALL AGES.

LOVE, SEX AND RELATIONSHIPS

K. Bradley Frost, Ph.D. (Sexologist)
Monday, January 9/7:30 PM

Love and sex are often the most cussed and discussed part of relationships, especially in marriages. Dr. Frost, Sexologist, will conduct a humorous presentation of tips to more effectively balance love and sex, so that relationships grow stronger over time. Bring your partner for an entertaining and enlightening evening.

BREAST FEEDING CLINIC

Tuesday, January 10/1:30 PM

An informal discussion of the advantages of breastfeeding and how to get started, including: tips for breastfeeding and working, how to prevent sore nipples, and what to expect those first few days. Presented by La Leche League Leaders.

FACIAL PAIN:
SYMPTOMS AND TREATMENTS

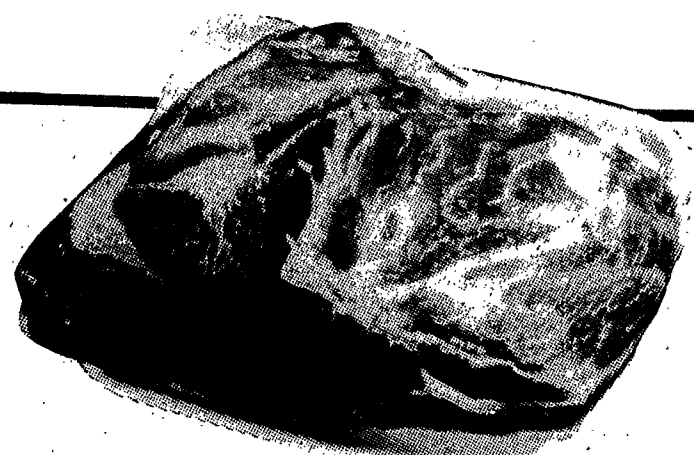

William H. Wood, D.D.S. (Oral Surgeon)

Wednesday, January 11/11 AM

Stress, clenching teeth, incorrect bite and TMJ are a few of the major contributors to facial pain. Dr. Wood, a local oral surgeon, will discuss the effects of these symptoms, how to identify your problem, and methods of treatment that can relieve aching in the face, jaw and neck.

All classes are free and are held in the Women's Resource Suite.

OUR CLASSIFIEDS
ARE HERE
FOR YOU!

And now when you use the coupon below you can save like never before on your classified ads by paying in advance!

HERE'S HOW:

- Write your ad message in the spaces below. Avoid abbreviations, for we cannot be responsible for misinterpreting any important words or phrases. Please use only one word for each space below. Any standard English word is considered to be one (1) word. Any price or phone number you list is also considered to be one word each.
- Include a phone number or address, so potential buyers can reach you.
- Ads are only payable in advance.
- $2.25 minimum for 15 words or less per issue. Over 15 words an additional 15¢ per word.
- Normal classified deadlines apply.
- We reserve the right to reject any ad copy we feel is questionable.
- We must have both your ad and your payment in advance.

Please be sure to use this coupon to take advantage of the special. Include your payment of 15 words per each issue you want your ad to run.

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has found that Hancock County is a much of the rest of the more than one area.

Board President Ron Vas said he and other officials attended an midwinter conference held last week by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service and the Mississippi Association of Supervisors in Jackson, where county government reorganization was the major topics.

Other topics affecting Hancock County included rural protection, rural hospital waste disposal, Cueva. Much of the information provided concerned the most legislation in each area.

"Basically, these sessions gave supervisors the opportunity to upgrade their knowledge."

Bay St. Louis plans consolidation on co.

BY DENA BISNET
The Bay St. Louis-Walton School Board has decided to have another public meeting on consolidation.

Board Secretary Chas. Benvenuti, standing president Monday, said because Board President D. Diboll was ill with the flu, the board had not yet taken official position on consolidation.

The board called a special meeting for 7 p.m., Jan. 19, only two agenda items. The first was collection of public input on consolidation, as was done at the hearing the board conducted last week.

The second, added at request from Board Member William Bradley, will be to select a specific business to be consolidated.
